The accident occurred when the three men were attempting to blow out a roadway, leading into a drainage ditch. They were preparing a charge when one of the sticks accidentally exploded. Eighteen sticks were discharged. All three men are well known here. The Clodfelter family came to Cobb's Station about 4 years ago. The elder man leaves 10 children, while the son, Cecil, leaves his widow and a small babe.

PROMINENT SPEAKER
AT CITY HALL TONIGHT

Paul B. Naylor, of the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, will speak at the City Hall, Friday night, October 21st, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Naylor is one of the best speakers on agricultural subjects in the State. His subject at this meeting will probably be along the lines of farmers' organizations and their value or "What the Farmer Can Do at the Present Time to Help Better His Conditions."

Mr. Naylor was on the Chautauqua platform last summer, where large audiences paid admission to hear him speak on these subjects. You will miss something if you miss this lecture.

Bring your neighbors and come to this meeting and give Mr. Naylor a good hearing. "Too busy" will not be sufficient excuse for failing to come to this meeting.

Sikeston was very pleased of have these gentlemen with us and hopes at some future date, they will again honor us with their presence.

PREACHER'S WIFE'S AMENDED PETITION ASKS FOR ALIMONY

Charleston, Mo., Oct. 18.—The divorce case of Lella Harris Sexton against John W. Sexton, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, South, of this city, which was docketed for trial in the Mississippi County Circuit Court for yesterday, was continued by consent to the February term, 1922. An amended petition was filed in which the plaintiff seeks alimony.

There are no changes from the original petition, filed September 6, in which Mrs. Sexton alleges that the minister made her unhappy by quarreling, striking her and on one occasion knocking her down and by saying things that made her marriage ties unbearable. The defendant, denied all the allegations.

The officers of the church, with one exception, stand with the minister and refuse to believe any of the allegations.

The defendant's service with the Canadian forces in the ranks in Siberia is urged in his behalf. Mrs. Sexton has been a teacher in the grade schools here for a number of years.

WHEAT YIELD ESTIMATED
AT 529,000,000 BUSHELS

Washington, October 17.—Wheat on farms, excluding that required for use by the farmers, was estimated by the Department of Agriculture in figures made public today at 318,000,000 bushels this year, compared to 447,000,000 last year.

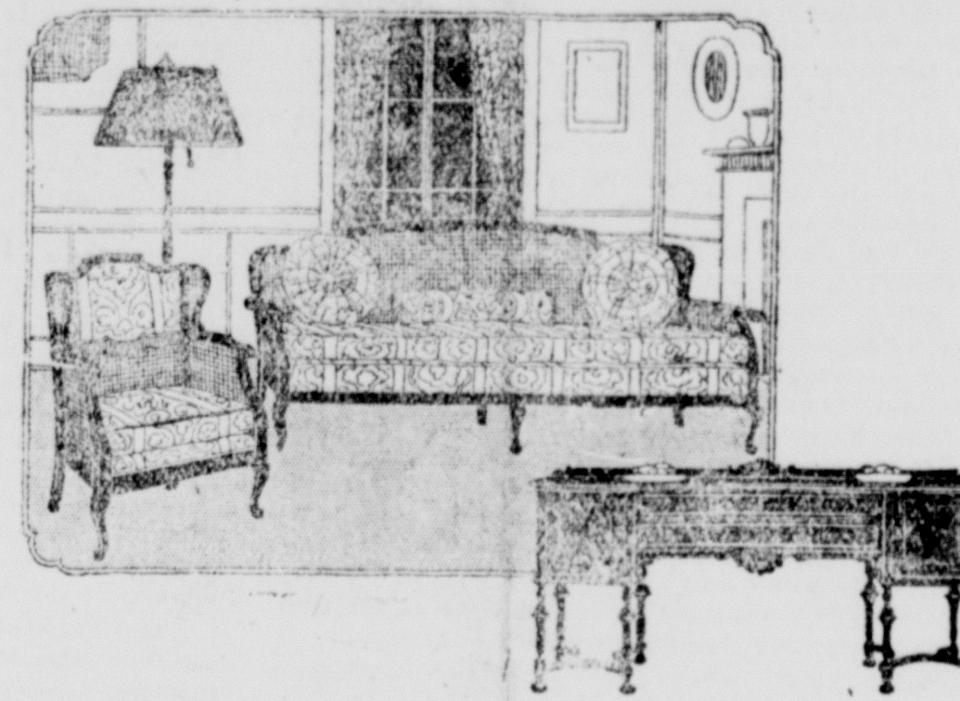

Wheat in country mills and elevators was estimated at 152,000,000 bushels, compared to 129,000,000 last year, and commercial visible 59,000,000, compared with 29,000,000 last year, making total of 529,000,000 this year, as against last year's total of 605,000,000.

Why Trade at Home?

Many people ask that question, but very few trouble to seek the answer. Why should people patronize their home merchants?

Because it is a great saving of time, and time today represents money.

Because the home merchant can only remain in business through the patronage of home people, and a town without merchants would be a sorry place in which to live.

Because the home merchant sells goods that do not have to be returned because of defects or inferiority of quality. It is the only way in which a local man can hold his trade.

Because the local merchant is not in the habit of charging excessive prices. You may at times be able to get the same article elsewhere for a little less money, but the quality will invariably be reduced in proportion to the price. The local merchant cannot afford to sell "cheap" stuff. His customers would not tolerate it.

The present prices at which contracts are being let reflect actual economic conditions. As these conditions improve the cost will be lower. A reduction in freight rates would reduce the cost per mile. Grading contracts are being let this year at 15 to 25 cents a square yard. Last year, for the same jobs, 80 cents to $1 was asked. Reinforced steel has been reduced from 7 to 4 cents.

The state appropriated $25,000 per annum for the use of the first State Highway Commission. This year Illinois is expending $2,500,000 per month in constructing hard roads. The total amount to be distributed for this purpose during the present year is estimated at $17,000,000. Next year it will reach $30,000,000.

A large sum is being saved in the new policy of requiring each county to supply the right of way for the shortest possible route. Original highway lines are being ignored. When the federal aid road was built between Springfield and Peoria the concrete was laid upon the old zigzag dirt road. Had a straight line been followed many curves and turns would have been eliminated, while the road would have been ten miles shorter and there would have been a saving in cost of more than $300,000.

The Chicago-St. Louis road, known officially as Route 4, which runs via Joliet, Dwight, Bloomington, Springfield and Alton, will be without a curve of consequence.

SIGNAL LIGHT REGULATIONS

Jefferson City, Mo., October 17.—Secretary of State Chas. U. Becker, after consulting with Attorney General Barrett, issued a statement to-night covering the requirements of the new automobile law, operative November 2, as to its provisions concerning the display of rear signals. The statement said in part:

"This department has decided that we will not object to the use of any one of three devices of signals:

"A signal indicating 'turn and stop.'

"A signal displaying the word 'stop'.

"A signal that will display the word 'slow'.

"This will permit the use of most of the signals now on the market and will give this department, as well as the automobile clubs and automobile owners, a chance to experiment and study the operation of the various class of signals."

The Secretary of State and the Attorney General have been deluged with requests to approve various devices. The Secretary said he will not single out any particular device, but all that meet the requirements of the law will receive his sanction.

In all cities of 10,000 inhabitants and over closed motor vehicles must carry signal devices to indicate a turn to the right or left, a stop or 'go slow.'

FORMER BANK CASHIER HELD ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

Sam C. Sharp, 35 years old, formerly cashier of the First National Bank at Campbell, Mo., was arrested by a Deputy United States Marshal at the Aberdeen Hotel here Saturday night on an indictment returned by the Federal grand jury last week at Cape Girardeau, charging him with having embezzled $2000 of the bank's funds.

He said he had been in St. Louis several weeks working for a packing concern, and that it was his understanding at the bank had been made good by his father and the matter dropped.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ILLINOIS FARMERS IN SOUTHEAST MISSOURISPECIAL SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

For the past three seasons chinch bugs and other pestilence have hit the farmers of Macoupin County, Illinois, and they have been hurt to such an extent that they were ready to listen to the story of the wonderful possibilities of Southeast Missouri. T. A. Wilson, assistant secretary of the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau, was the electric wire sent to that section to put the juice to them, and they took his talk as a kid takes to candy.

The stand pipe reaching from the ground to the reservoir has been covered with two layers of Oregon fir with air spaces between each layer, which will prevent the moisture gathering on the pipe. It is proposed to empty, wash and paint the inside of the reservoir with the hopes of keeping the water free of iron rust and other sediment. While the tank is empty heavy pressure will be kept on the water mains in order to furnish water for use while the cleaning is being carried on. Should pressure be low, this will be the reason and the public should make no complaint as the Council is doing some real work in order to give the purest water possible.

The first of the week a party composed of Messrs. Angelo Parks, Weller, Thompson, Werner, Crutcher, Flannery, Jones and Bean, under the guidance of A. L. Foard, secretary of the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau, started for this section of the State and are now being shown farm lands in each of the eight counties composing the Agricultural Bureau. The first county visited was Cape Girardeau, from there to Butler to Stoddard, and Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, they arrived in Sikeston for luncheon, then were delivered to the Mississippi County delegation, who were to show them the wonderful land in their county Thursday. Thursday afternoon they returned to Sikeston and from here they will be driven over the south part of Scott County and the north part of New Madrid County, after which they go to New Madrid and on to Pemiscot and Dunklin Counties.

To date these gentlemen are delighted with the sections they have visited and after their return home, it will take a long time to tell the neighbors just where they liked best. This was not a land buying trip but a visit to the Modern Promised Land where they could see for themselves just where the products on exhibition at the St. Louis Station were raised. It is believed this trip will be followed by others from that part of Illinois and in due course of time many from the same vicinity will locate in Southeast Missouri, where they can have their old neighbors and form a real live farm community.

The Standard joins in welcoming these people to our section.

FEDERATION BOARD

CANNOT FRAME CONSTITUTION

Mrs. A. H. Hinckley has returned from Clinton, Mo., where, last week, she attended an important meeting of the State Board of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. The State Board transacts the business of the Federation during the biennial periods. A meeting of the fifth district of the convention was held at Clinton at the same time.

Others from Southeast Missouri who attended the meeting were Mrs. W. T. Shanks of Sikeston, ninth district president, and Mrs. O. W. Bleeck, Farmington, first state vice-president.

Mrs. Hinckley is chairman of the American Citizenship Committee.

Mrs. E. M. Sheppard, former state president, was present at the meeting, at which there was an attendance of 17 of the 21 members of the Board—Cape Missourian.

Just a line in black and white on the freight rates in the United States. A recent shipment of 50,000 bushels of clover seed from Hamburg, Germany, was received in St. Louis. From Hamburg to New York, the rate was 30 cents per cwt., from New York to St. Louis, 40 cents per cwt., from St. Louis to Sikeston, 90 cents per cwt., and there you are.

Lou McCoy had the misfortune to lose a barn by fire Wednesday night. Mr. McCoy informs The Standard that he lost some hogs in the fire and that it was set on fire by someone sleeping in it, as it is close to the railroad and inviting to some of the traveling hobos at this time of the year. The fire was between 12 and 1 o'clock Wednesday night.

E. J. Keith, of the Hoosier Land Co., was stricken with acute indigestion Wednesday afternoon and was a very sick man for many hours. Drs. Tonelli and McClure, and Dr. H. E. Reuber were with him constantly until Thursday morning, when he was pronounced as improving. The Standard, with the entire business interests of Sikeston, is glad to hear of the improvement in his condition, as he is one of the real progressive men of our community.

The wheat crop in the Sikeston District is about all in and at no time in the past has the seed bed been in better condition. Quite a large acreage is being sown and the farmer is hoping for a bountiful crop and a fair price for next season.

The Standard acknowledges the receipt of a box of fruit sent by Mrs. Amanda Conn from Sodus, N. Y. Mrs. Conn is there with her daughter, Mrs. Virginia White, who was a former Sikeston teacher, and thought it would be nice to remember the editor's family with a sample of the great apple crop of that section.

Those interested in dairying should by all means, attend the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening, as it is expected to have with us on that occasion a man familiar with dairy cattle and dairying in general. This branch of agriculture has been sadly neglected in this section and The Standard hopes a large delegation will be out to hear him.

The farmer who sends to mail order houses for his supplies is not treating the home merchant, who has accommodated him in the past, right when he sends his cash away. The man in town who lives off the town has no right to send his orders away when he can buy at home. All of this, however, provided the home people have the goods and the right prices. Give the home merchants the preference with your cash.

The old Russian families, rich beyond anything known anywhere else in the world, know more about the futility of material wealth right now than any people who ever lived. Possessing gold and silver, jewels and gems, rugs and pictures, porcelains, tapestries and whatever else money commands, they are still trying to get out of Russia with some part of what they have accumulated through generations of inequality. The favorite pastime of the Bolsheviks has been bagging these gentlemen on their way out and taking the spoils. A great deal has been taken in this way. Some parts of Russia's wealth has gone down in yachts seeking to escape thru the Black Sea. Gen. Wrangel is the last Russian aristocrat to lose his all. It sank in a collision at sea. It is no fun to take everything you possess and try to get to another part of the world with it agains the wishes of an uprisen proletariat. Nevertheless, the spectacle is educational. We ought to see it, and let us hope that all of us are looking. Nobody with mere riches of mind has had any difficulty getting them out of Russia. They are the wealth which is not stayed by custom nor preyed upon by decay. They are the only riches really worth having in this life. If the Russians had put their wealth into education they would have riches still. Nor would they have had the revolution. Only 10 per cent of the whole population could read and write. The rest were illiterate and exploited. They finally grew tired of it—and then came the end. There has been no other such amazing drama in history—none other carrying so tremendous a moral. Crassus, who prized only gold, so enraged the better-thinking Greeks that when he died, they poured molten gold down his throat. He has about three inches of type in the encyclopedia. Socrates, who had only riches of mind, has five or six pages. There is only one kind of wealth, and Russia did not know about it.—Clark McAdams in Post-Dispatch.

The United States Department of Agriculture has conducted a steer-fattening experiment in Mississippi which shows that velvet beans are well adapted for use in making beef. Feeding mixtures of silage, dry velvet beans and cotton seed were compared with combinations of silage and dry velvet beans. The mixture of silage and soaked velvet beans resulted in the most economical and profitable production of beef, while the mixture of silage, dry velvet beans and cotton seed meal proved more satisfactory than the combination of silage and dry velvet beans.

Though past 70 years of age, two farm women of Linn County arose in community meeting the other day and said if it appeared necessary they would stump the county for the farm bureau—so keenly did they appreciate the help they had received from rural organization and from the home demonstration agent.

POLITICAL LETTER FROM WASHINGTON

By Wallace Bassford

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was in a particularly happy vein when he discovered that Wall Street's great organs, the Journal of Commerce and the Wall Street Journal had, like the parrot, talked too much. He read to the Senate the opinions of these papers on the recent "Surrender" of the Old Guard Republicans to the so-called "Agricultural bloc", with his own comments. Among other things, he said:

"Do senators know what the New York Journal of Commerce said about that meeting at the White House on the following morning? Here is what they said—and they knew; they were speaking by the card—

"A new era in the relationship of the United States Government and the Nation's financial and business leaders is believed to have been inaugurated in the conference to which President Harding summoned several New York bankers on Wednesday night. These bankers returning yesterday from the meeting, which was participated in by representatives of the Cabinet, observed the customary reticence in discussing what had taken place. They did not, however, hesitate to show their gratification at the development."

"The next day this same Journal of Commerce said:

"One thing which Wall Street took extreme satisfaction in yesterday was the evident willingness of President Harding to learn. He admittedly is not an expert in financial affairs, but he is ready to accept advice and willing to be set right where he is wrong."

"Those were the views entertained on Wall Street after that meeting; but yesterday a new light broke in that part of the great metropolis. How does the Wall Street crowd now feel since the old guard that promised them relief has surrendered without giving battle? Here is what they say. This is from the Wall Street Journal of yesterday. Oh, they have changed their views now. Let me read.

"Compromise is justifiable when desirable ends can be achieved in no other way and no principle is sacrificed. The House and Senate revenue bills were examples of compromise that accomplished at least an installment of tax amelioration. The pusillanimous surrender of Republican leaders is in no sense a compromise."

"They were talking about you then—

"It is a cowardly retreat—

"Listen to it, may I ask the Senator from Indiana. I am afraid he did not catch that last expression—

"The pusillanimous surrender of Republican leaders is in no sense a compromise."

"This is from the Wall Street Journal. This is the organ controlled by the same interests that said, the day following the conference at the White House between Morgan and Sabin and President Harding, that a new day was dawning in America. So I read further, to the delight, I am sure, of my friend from Indiana, and I am glad the Senator from Utah (Mr. Smoot) is listening:

"It is a cowardly retreat before a gang of demagogues, euphemistically called an agricultural bloc."

"I am sorry that the leader of the majority party in the Chamber is not now in his seat, because he has gone over to the agricultural bloc. He has taken the reins from the Senator from Iowa (Mr. Kenyon) who led in this movement. Oh, how these progressives of old have been supplanted by the progressives of today! La Follette, who sat on the Finance Committee for weeks and fought by the side of the Democratic members of that Committee in the interest of the people to reduce taxes, yes, he was in favor of retaining as a maximum a large surtax; but who this progressive element meets up at Senator Capper's house this former leader of progressivism is forgotten. This man who helped to make the fight in the committee is ostracized. The Senator from Idaho (Mr. Borah) and the Senator from far-away California (Mr. Johnson), who were once known in this country as real progressives, have been supplanted by the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. Kellogg) and the Senator from Colorado (Mr. Nicholson) and the Senator from Nevada (Mr. Oddie) those others, who formerly belonged to the reactionary group. That is the way the world runs; and my friend the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Lenroot) is now called a demagogue, and the Senator from Kansas (Mr. Capper), who opened his doors and filled high the festive board to receive these distinguished new progressives and agriculturists from Boston and Chicago, is called in this article a demagogue.

"It is a cowardly retreat before a gang of demagogues."

"I do not know in which class this paper has placed my friend, the distinguished Senator from Indiana (Mr. Watson), because he has been on both sides of the proposition, and I do not know whether he was charging or retreating, but, anyway, they say in one instance, that he was pusillanimous and in the other that he was a demagogue."

Misunderstood Daughters

Ever since the world began, young girls have desired personal adornment. Centuries back the feminine instinctive demand was satisfied with jewels and reeds and hand-molded bracelets. Parents do not seem to realize that every girl inherits, through countless generations, this craving for the pretty frocks and hats and slippers, and so a very great deal of unhappiness is caused. Mother flatly denies Mary the prettiest, saying the are unnecessary. And Mary, breaking her heart because she has set her mind on having the gay pink flowered hat, promptly rebels and sometimes, in her madness of youth's impulse, leaves home.

Of course, there is mother's side to the question, too. Mother has charge of the family pocketbook, and the pretty things Mary loves, are expensive. But somehow, when it is entirely analyzed, as the social workers prove, who give out the statistics from their investigations, the blame seems unevenly balanced, with the great part of it living in mother's end.

I will try and tell of my trip to No Man's Land some thirty years ago:

In the fall of 1888, I bade old Scott County, Missouri and one of Sandywood's pretty girls, a girl I loved, farewell. Leaving with no desire in my heart to ever return. As we had disagreed going back to Tennessee.

There finding no comfort in a Wild Rose to a lonely heart and began to drift westwards. Finally landing at No Man's Land, the home of the long horn steer. This being a strip of land across the Dixie line in the northwest corner of what is known today as Braver County, Okla.

There for eighteen long months I tried to be contented with the low of the cow and the howl of the wild coyote, an old dugout to bring back sweet dreams. A dugout is a hole dug in the ground covered with sod. That is where the cowboys sleep at night.

A great many times my heart was saddened when I would hear some lonely cowboy at night singing, "I am going back home this fall, boys, when the Round-up is over." As I had no desire in my heart to even go back I began to know. Going back there five years ago, I found land in cultivation, fine horses, railroads, State road running these old cow trails into roads. A few of the old dugouts reminded me of early days, as there were no long horn cattle or cowboys, I wondered if the Round-up was over and the boys had gone back home.

The thoughts of those old days bring back to me some of the cowboys songs, "When I am dead and gone, will you think of the girl you did wrong?"

For thirty-three long years, I have wondered if I did wrong.

The 23rd Psalm of David Modernized

1. The dollar is my God; with it I shall not want.

2. It giveth me plush couches to lie down upon. It leadeth me close beside the money till.

3. It restoreth my financial confidence. It leadeth me into the paths into the path of money-getting for filthy lucre's sake.

4. Yea, though I rob in the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no law; for it buys my way through. Its presence and its strength embolden me.

5. It feedeth me lavishly in the presence of the poor. It crowns my head with finery; my till runneth over.

In regard to the Prohibition Law, we are sorry to have been unable to discover more direct violation of this law. Most evidence has come to us in only a circumstantial form. The making of whiskey is the root of the evil, in Prohibition law violations and we are of the opinion that slow progress will be made until the still is stamped out. Therefore, we should recommend to Your Honor, that if the County Court would, if they could lawfully do so, offer a standing reward to our Sheriff or any other person for the discovery in our County, of whiskey stills in operation or set up for operation and captured by the Sheriff or any other person, a fifty dollar reward to the Sheriff or other person for the capturing of said still or for the arrest and conviction of a man or men operating a still. There is little compensation at the present time, or none at all in cases where the Sheriff captures a still and gets no man with it. We believe if the stills can be unearthed and destroyed, that much will be done thereby to lessen the great many instances of persons violating the Prohibition Law.

Concerning elections, we investigated thoroughly everything presented to us in regard to these matters and we must report that recent election, Portageville precinct, our investigation showed that the election at that precinct was carried on in a very unsatisfactory manner, however, we are unable to report that there were no particular persons that could be held responsible.

We have presented every person upon which we could discover sufficient evidence to indict.

Imports of farm live stock are beginning to show totals similar to those that prevailed previous to the World War. During the last fiscal year the United States Department of Agriculture reports that 3,728 cattle, 507 sheep, 101 swine, 61 goats, and other animals, including those for use in zoos, circuses, and for exhibition purposes, in addition to reindeer and foxes, were imported into the United States after being properly inspected and held in quarantine.

It is especially noteworthy that 29,057 quail were imported from Mexico for restocking wood lots, forests, and other timbered areas. The total number of animals which were imported and inspected but not quarantined consisted of 331,381 cattle, 158,980 sheep, 1,281 swine, 3,311 goats, 13,173 horses, and 1,765 other animals for use in zoological gardens, circuses and vaudeville, fairs, and shows.

You are right, Bildad; crime has been on the increase ever since the automobile came into general use. For instance, disturbing public worship by loud and unusual noises used to be a rare occurrence and boys who did it with laughter or ribald song were severely punished in a nearby court of justice. Nowadays, however, the individual who wishes to break up a meeting or drown out a preacher, simply cranks up his car and lets the engine roar. It is far more effective than the old way and much safer as a crime. It is also more generally practiced than would be the case if laws against disturbing public worship were enforced like they used to be when deacons and elders were the complaining witnesses instead of parties to the crime, as is too often the case at present.—Paris Appeal.

It has been brought to our attention that some of the pool rooms in New Madrid County are permitting minors to loaf and loiter in and around their places of business and are allowing minors to engage in games of pool in violation of the law. We suggest that the Prosecuting Attorney make a strict investigation and if he finds upon thorough investigation that such conditions do exist that he make such report to the Court and we recommend that the Court revoke the license of

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Monday evening, one of the matters that will be discussed is the lack of express accommodations for this city. There is no personal complaint against the employees of the local office, but there is a just complaint as to the hours the office is open and the red tape that has to be gone through with before one can send away packages. The way the trains arrive and depart from Sikeston, the hours of the employees of the local office, will not permit the acceptance of express, except in rare cases, to be handled on the day of acceptance. The blame is attached to the headquarters office for not giving the Sikeston office another man or two and having the office open from 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., and to arrange the shifts that the office might be kept open through the entire day.

PROMINENT SPEAKER
AT CITY HALL TONIGHT

Paul B. Naylor, of the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, will speak at the City Hall, Friday night, October 21st, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Naylor is one of the best speakers on agricultural subjects in the State. His subject at this meeting will probably be along the lines of farmers' organizations and their value or "What the Farmer Can Do at the Present Time to Help Better His Conditions."

Mr. Naylor was on the Chautauqua platform last summer, where large audiences paid admission to hear him speak on these subjects. You will miss something if you miss this lecture.

Bring your neighbors and come to this meeting and give Mr. Naylor a good hearing. "Too busy" will not be sufficient excuse for failing to come to this meeting.

ILLINOIS LEADING U. S.
IN BUILDING ROADS

Bloomington, Ill., October 17.—Illinois is leading the nation in permanent road construction. Pennsylvania is a close second, but will not be able to equal the record of Illinois this year.

To add to the 800 miles of federal aid concrete road constructed prior to 1921 are 300 miles of state bond issue road completed this year, with a possibility that the total will reach the 500 mark, depending on weather conditions during November and December.

The program for 1922 provides for the construction of 1000 miles. This is easy to state, but not easy to comprehend. It will require a train of cars extending from Chicago to Cairo, 500 miles, to haul the crushed stone, sand, cement and other materials that will be consumed next year.

The present prices at which contracts are being let reflect actual economic conditions. As these conditions improve the cost will be lower. A reduction in freight rates would reduce the cost per mile. Grading contracts are being let this year at 15 to 25 cents a square yard. Last year, for the same jobs, 80 cents to $1 was asked. Reinforced steel has been reduced from 7 to 4 cents.

The state appropriated $25,000 per annum for the use of the first State Highway Commission. This year Illinois is expending $2,500,000 per month in constructing hard roads. The total amount to be distributed for this purpose during the present year is estimated at $17,000,000. Next year it will reach $30,000,000.

A large sum is being saved in the new policy of requiring each county to supply the right of way for the shortest possible route. Original highway lines are being ignored. When the federal aid road was built between Springfield and Peoria the concrete was laid upon the old zigzag dirt road. Had a straight line been followed many curves and turns would have been eliminated, while the road would have been ten miles shorter and there would have been a saving in cost of more than $300,000.

The Chicago-St. Louis road, known officially as Route 4, which runs via Joliet, Dwight, Bloomington, Springfield and Alton, will be without a curve of consequence.

H. C. Blanton and Ralph E. Bailey were visitors to New Madrid on legal business this week.

WHEAT YIELD ESTIMATED

Washington, October 17.—Wheat on farms, excluding that required for use by the farmers, was estimated by the Department of Agriculture in figures made public today at 318,000,000 bushels this year, compared to 447,000,000 last year.

Wheat in country mills and elevators was estimated at 152,000,000 bushels, compared to 129,000,000 last year, and commercial visible 59,000,000, compared with 29,000,000 last year, making total of 529,000,000 this year, as against last year's total of 605,000,000.

The Standard $2.00 per year.

THIRD BLAST VICTIM
EXPECTED TO RECOVER

Puxico, Mo., October 18.—That Joe Dodson, 30, who was seriously injured by a dynamite explosion at Cobb Station, 4 miles south of this city at 7:30 o'clock this morning, in which two other men lost their lives would live, was the opinion of attending physicians tonight. Dodson has regained consciousness, but is still unable to talk and his hearing is impaired. The bodies of the two dead men, Arch Clodfelter, 45, and his son, Cecil, 21, have been recovered and will be buried tomorrow.

The accident occurred when the three men were attempting to blow out, a roadway, leading into a drainage ditch. They were preparing a charge when one of the sticks accidentally exploded. been sadly neglected in this section and The Standard hopes a large delegation will be out to hear him.The farmer who sends to mail order the home merchant, who has accomhas never sympathized a great deal with any sort of unions, and less for railroad unions for some of their hold-up tactics during the war, but at this time The Standard wishes to enlighten the public just little on the present contemplated strike and endeavor to create a just sympathy with the railroad unions in their claims. The railroad men took a 12½ per cent cut in wages July 1, with the expectation and understanding that a reduction in freight rates would follow. So did freight rates drop on coast to coast hauls, but not in the corn belt or any other section where ocean carriers could not compete. Now comes the railroad operators with a demand for a further cut of 10 per cent in labor, but refuse to cut the freight rates.

Here is where the farmer public can see the square side of the labor claim.
The labor is willing to take the reduction, provided the railroads will immediately reduce freight rates, thereby making the cost of living at least 10 per cent cheaper. The operators refuse. They want a strike.
They expect the laboring man to go on half rations while they put in their treasury the extra amount skinned from labor. The Southeast Missouri public knows the present high freight rates have made it impossible for him to ship his hay, his corn, or his stock to the markets and get any reasonable returns. In this strike fight, the farmer and shipper should side with labor, who is fighting for his bread and butter.The Standard Theatre, the Home of Folly, Two Frolics Daily, is among the missing in action in St. Louis. Elvis Cadie, who spent last week down because its patrons could see as much free of charge on any corner on a calm day as they could see for a dollar at the Standard, says Elvis, while on a windy day they could see more. In yond anything known anywhere else in the world, know more about the futility of material wealth right now than any people who ever lived. Possessing gold and silver, jewels and gems, rugs and pictures, porcelains, tapestries and whatever else money commands, they are still trying to get out of Russia with some part of what they have accumulated through generations of inequality. The favorite pastime of the Bolsheviks has been bagging these gentlemen on their way out and taking the spoils. A great deal has been taken in this way. Some parts of Russia's wealth has gone down in yachts seeking to escape thru the Black Sea. Gen. Wrangel is the last Russian aristocrat to lose his all.

It sank in a collision at sea. It is no fun to take everything you possess and try to get to another part of the world with it agains the wishes of an uprisen proletariat. Nevertheless, the spectacle is educational. We ought to see it, and let us hope that all of us are looking. Nobody with mere riches of mind has had any difficulty getting them out of Russia. They are the wealth which is not staled by custom nor preyed upon by decay. They are the only riches really worth having in this life. If the Russians had put their wealth into education they would have riches still. Nor would they have had the revolution. Only 10 per cent of the whole population could read and write. The rest were illiterate and exploited. They finally grew tired of it—and then came the end. There has been no other such amazing drama in history—none other carrying so tremendous a moral.
Crassus, who prized only gold, so enraged the better-thinking Greeks that when he died, they poured molten gold down his throat. He has about three inches of type in the encyclopedia.
Socrates, who had only riches of mind, has five or six pages. There is only one kind of wealth, and Russia did not know about it.—Clark Mc-Adams in Post-Dispatch.The United States Department of Agriculture has conducted a steer-fattening experiment in Mississippi which shows that velvet beans are well adapted for use in making beef.
Feeding mixtures of silage, dry velvet beans and cotton seed were compared with combinations of silage and dry velvet beans. The mixture of silage and soaked velvet beans resulted in the most economical and profitable production of beef, while the mixture of silage, dry velvet beans and cotton seed meal proved more satisfactory than the combination of silage and dry velvet beans.Though past 70 years of age, two farm women of Linn County arose in community meeting the other day and said if it appeared necessary they would stump the county for the farm bureau—so keenly did they appreciate the help they had received from rural organization and from the home demonstration agent.POLITICAL LETTER FROM WASHINGTON

By Wallace Bassford

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was in a particularly happy vein when he discovered that Wall Street's great organs, the Journal of Commerce and the Wall Street Journal had, like the parrot, talked too much. He read to the Senate the opinions of these papers on the recent "Surrender" of the Old Guard Republicans to the so-called "Agricultural bloc," with his own comments. Among other things, he said:"Do senators know what the New York Journal of Commerce said about that meeting at the White House on the following morning? Here is what they said—and they knew; they were speaking by the card—"A new era in the relationship of the United States Government and the Nation's financial and business leaders is believed to have been inaugurated in the conference to which President Harding summoned several New York bankers on Wednesday night. These bankers returning yesterday from the meeting, which was participated in by representatives of the Cabinet, observed the customary reticence in discussing what had taken place. They did not, however, hesitate to show their gratification at the development."The right viewpoint on the clothes question must be instilled into your daughter's heart when she is a tiny tot. Do not say a flat and cruel
"no" to her small demands for a new doll, a new toy, anything her baby hear may crave. Explain to her as you would to the adult solicitor that you have just so much money to spend, and someone in the family would have to do without a more important necessity if you spent that money for a new doll for her. Choose someone whom little daughter loves very dearly in your explanation, and your appeal will hit the right spot in her baby heart.The next day this same Journal of Commerce said:"One thing which Wall Street took extreme satisfaction in yesterday was the evident willingness of President Harding to learn. He admittedly is not an expert in financial affairs, but he is ready to accept advice and willing to be set right where he is wrong.
"Those were the views entertained on Wall Street after that meeting; but yesterday a new light broke in that part of the great metropolis.
How does the Wall Street crowd now feel since the old guard that promised them relief has surrendered without giving battle? Here is what they say. This is from the Wall Street Journal of yesterday. Oh, they have changed their views now. Let me read."Compromise is justifiable when desirable ends can be achieved in no other way and no principle is sacrificed. The House and Senate revenue bills were examples of compromise that accomplished at least an installment of tax amelioration. The pusillanimous surrender of Republican leaders is in no sense a compromise.""They were talking about you then—

"It is a cowardly retreat—"

"Listen to it, may I ask the Senator from Indiana. I am afraid he did not catch that last expression—"The pusillanimous surrender of Republican leaders is in no sense a compromise.""This is from the Wall Street Journal. This is the organ controlled by the same interests that said, the day following the conference at the White House between Morgan and Sabin and President Harding, that a new day was dawning in America. So I read further, to the delight, I am sure, of my friend from Indiana, and I am glad the Senator from Utah (Mr.
Smoot) is listening:"It is a cowardly retreat before a gang of demagogues, euphemistically called an agricultural bloc.""I am sorry that the leader of the majority party in the Chamber is not now in his seat, because he has gone over to the agricultural bloc. He has taken the reins from the Senator from Iowa (Mr. Kenyon) who led in this movement. Oh, how these progressives of old have been supplanted by the progressives of today! La Follette, who sat on the Finance Committee for weeks and fought by the side of the Democratic members of that Committee in the interest of the people to reduce taxes, yes, he was in favor of retaining as a maximum a large surtax; but who this progressive element meets up at Senator Capper's house this former leader of progressivism is forgotten. This man who helped to make the fight in the committee is ostracized. The Senator from Idaho (Mr. Borah) and the Senator from far-away California (Mr. Johnson), who were once known in this country as real progressives, have been supplanted by the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. Kellogg) and the Senator from Colorado (Mr. Nicholson) and the Senator from Nevada (Mr. Oddie) those others, who formerly belonged to the reactionary group. That is the way the world runs; and my friend the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Lenroot) is now called a demagogue, and the Senator from Kansas (Mr. Capper), who opened his doors and filled high the festive board to receive these distinguished new progressives and agriculturists from Boston and Chicago, is called in this article a demagogue.Plans are being made by the Russian soviet government for sending abroad numbers of children famine sufferers. Those from the German Volga commune will go to Germany, while those who have arrived at Moscow and Petrograd from the various famine regions will be sent to England. They will remain abroad until they become 17 years old. Twenty-eight billion rubles has been appropriated for the evacuation to various Russian provinces of children from the Volga region, numbering 100,000.
Bulgaria has agreed to receive 20,000 of them.While in Charleston last Saturday the editor called to pay his respects to Hon. J. J. Russell. We found him in pretty good condition, but sorry that his health would not permit him to make a visit around over his old district to meet friends.(It is a cowardly retreat before a gang of demagogues.)"I do not know in which class this paper has placed my friend, the dis-tinguished Senator from Indiana (Mr.
Watson), because he has been on both sides of the proposition, and I do not know whether he was charging or retreating, but, anyway, they say in one instance, that he was pusillanimous, and in the other that he was a demagogue."

MISUNDERSTOOD DAUGHTERS

Ever since the world began, young girls have desired personal adornment.
Centuries back the feminine instinctive demand was satisfied with jewels and reeds and hand-molded bracelets.
Parents do not seem to realize that every girl inherits, through countless generations, this craving for the pretty frocks and hats and slippers, and so a very great deal of unhappiness is caused. Mother flatly denies Mary the prettiest, saying the are unnecessary. And Mary, breaking her heart because she has set her mind on having he gay pink flowered hat, promptly rebels and sometimes, in her madness of youth's impulse, leaves home.Of course, there is mother's side to the question, too. Mother has charge of the family pocketbook, and the pretty things Mary loves, are expensive. But somehow, when it is entirely analyzed, as the social workers prove, who give out the statistics from their investigations, the blame seems unevenly balanced, with the great part of it living in mother's end.The right viewpoint on the clothes question must be instilled into your daughter's heart when she is a tiny
tot. Do not say a flat and cruel
"no" to her small demands for a new
doll, a new toy, anything her baby hear may crave. Explain to her as you would to the adult solicitor that you have just so much money to spend, and someone in the family
would have to do without a more important necessity if you spent that money for a new doll for her. Choose someone whom little daughter loves
very dearly in your explanation, and your appeal will hit the right spot in her baby heart.But, returning to the subject of her clothes, later on, when she begins to blossom out as a social bud, much of the trouble could be avoided if mothers would take that primitive instinct for adornment into consideration.If your income is so limited that you cannot afford to purchase dainty things every girl loves, try to make some of them for daughter. Work with her early in the sewing room and get yourself into the habit of being her little pal instead of her keeper. It will be much easier later to plan together frocks and hats and dainty underthings, and the idea of buying them at the shops will be a secondary consideration after the home sewing habit is formed.Often mothers are heard to say:
"Well, I didn't have those things when I was a young girl. Why should my daughter have them?"Quite true. But think back and remember the heartaches you experienced because of the lack. Of course you did, because the instinct for nice clothes is latent in every woman's heart.
You may have squelched the desire for these things because your own mother did not understand the world-old instinct, but is that any reason why your own little girl should go through the same pain?When daughter reaches sixteen or seventeen the instinct becomes strongest. The situation must be handled very carefully then so as to avoid wrecking the nucleus of a future character.Not by over-indulgence is vanity, such as fathers are sometimes prone to shower upon their daughters, nor yet by stinting her natural desire for dainty attire, but rather by its wholesome gratification, by bringing daughters to see that the limited income must be budgeted, and then entering freely with her into the spirit of selecting the prettiest and best frocks obtainable in an adventure-loving, bargain-hunting spirit.Plans are being made by the Russian soviet government for sending abroad numbers of children famine sufferers. Those from the German Volga commune will go to Germany,
while those who have arrived at Moscow and Petrograd from the various famine regions will be sent to England. They will remain abroad until they become 17 years old. Twenty-

priated for the evacuation to various

all persons violating the law governing pool rooms.

In regard to the Prohibition Law, we are sorry to have been unable to discover more direct violation of this law. Most evidence has come to us in only a circumstantial form. The making of whiskey is the root of the evil, in Prohibition law violations and we are of the opinion that slow progress will be made until the still is stamped out. Therefore, we should recommend to Your Honor, that if the County Court would, if they could lawfully do so, offer a standing reward to our Sheriff or any other person for the discovery in our County, of whiskey stills in operation or set up for operation and captured by the Sheriff or any other person, a fifty dollar reward to the Sheriff or other person for the capturing of said still or for the arrest and conviction of a man or men operating a still. There is little compensation at the present time, or none at all in cases where the Sheriff captures a still and gets no man with it. We believe if the stills can be unearthed and destroyed, that much will be done thereby to lessen the great many instances of persons violating the Prohibition Law.

Concerning elections, we investigated thoroughly everything presented to us in regard to these matters and we must report that recent election, Portageville precinct, our investigation showed that the election at that precinct was carried on in a very unsatisfactory manner, however, we are unable to report that there were no particular persons that could be held responsible.

We have presented every person upon which we could discover sufficient evidence to indict.

Respectfully submitted, R. L. Simmons, Foreman, Walter De Lisle, Joe Butler, Thos. A. Myers, Clarence York, Ed Gullion, Fred Collier, Allen Phillips, Frank Dunham, John Moylan, John Tawney, R. W. Hunter.

I will try and tell of my trip to No Man's Land some thirty years ago:

In the fall of 1888, I bade old Scott County, Missouri and one of Sandywood's pretty girls, a girl I loved, a farewell. Leaving with no desire in my heart to ever return. As we had disagreed going back to Tennessee.

The school closed here Thursday and Friday of last week in order that the teachers might attend the teachers' meeting at Cape Girardeau.

Those of our people who have never seen Holy Roller meetings, had the privilege of seeing their performance Sunday night, about ten or fifteen of that faith coming down from Sikeston.

There will be a community meeting held here Friday, October 28th. We certainly think these meetings are grand. It brings the parents and teachers together, and the children think more interest is being taken in them.

"The Lone Star Ranger" was put on the screen Saturday night and enjoyed by a full house. This story is another fine play with a moral that ill-gotten gains does no man any good in the end, and your sins certainly will find you out. On Saturday night, the 22nd, "Carmen" will be shown. Those who have read this book, know it will be interesting on the screen. Let everybody bring their children and come.

LIVE STOCK IMPORTS SHOW RETURN TO PREWAR NUMBERS

Imports of farm live stock are beginning to show totals similar to those that prevailed previous to the World War. During the last fiscal year the United States Department of Agriculture reports that 3,728 cattle, 567 sheep, 101 swine, 61 goats, and other animals, including those for use in zoos, circuses, and for exhibition purposes, in addition to reindeer and foxes, were imported into the United States after being properly inspected and held in quarantine.

It is especially noteworthy that 29,057 quail were imported from Mexico for restocking wood lots, forests, and other timbered areas. The total number of animals which were imported and inspected but not quarantined consisted of 331,381 cattle, 158,980 sheep, 1,281 swine, 3,311 goats, 13,173 horses, and 1,765 other animals for use in zoological gardens, circuses and vaudeville, fairs, and shows.

The 23rd Psalm of David Modernized

1. The dollar is my God; with it I shall not want.

2. It giveth me plush couches to lie down upon. It leadeth me close beside the money till.

3. It restoreth my financial confidence. It leadeth me into the paths into the path of money-getting for filthy lucre's sake.

4. Yea, though I rob in the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no law; for it buys my way through. Its presence and its strength embolden me.

5. It feedeth me lavishly in the presence of the poor. It crowns my head with finery; my till runneth over.

6. Surely, greediness and avarice shall follow me all the days of my life! and I will dwell in the spirit of the dollar forever.—Charles R. Paine, in Post-Dispatch.

She was an ardent prison reformer. She gazed at the man whose cell she was visiting with frank disappointment. "You say you're perfectly happy here," she said. "You like the food. They give you everything you want. In fact, you haven't got a single fault to find." "Not one, m'm", answered the prisoner. "Then, perhaps," she replied sarcastically, "perhaps you'd rather stop here than be set free?" "Oh, yes, m'm", he answered. She was staggered for a moment. "What was your crime?" she asked. "Polygamy, m'm. There's five of 'em waiting outside for me."

There is no personal complaint against the employees of the local office, but there is a just complaint as to the hours the office is open and the red tape that has to be gone through with before one can send away packages. The blame is attached to the headquarters office for not giving the Sikeston office another man or two and having the office open from 7:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., and to arrange the shifts that the office might be kept open through the entire day.
